MOVE TO RESTORE "OLD FIRST" CHURCH

Worthy Tribute to Memory of Washington.

The recent observance of Washington's birthday calls attention to a movement now afoot which is inextricably bound up with his memory and which, although originating and progressing in another city, has transcended its bounds to interest many outsiders, and particularly those who reside in the capital city which is his namesake. This is the campaign to raise $10,000 for the restoration of the historic "Old First" Presbyterian church of Alexandria, Va., together with its burying ground, in which 30 different organizations—civil, fraternal, patriotic, Masonic, benevolent and racial—are co-operating.

What remains of the edifice, which was begun two years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence and which was founded by Scottish Covenanters, stands on South Fairfax street, named in honor of that Lord Fairfax who was George Washington's friend and benefactor. Even though Alexandria strongly sympathized with and as Virginia fell was part of the South during the troubled times of the Civil war, the church membership adhered to the Northern assembly and eventually, in 1865, exemplified as an active church body. To-day, however, members of this faith residing there are waging a vigorous campaign both in northern and southern quarters to restore the old structure, not alone because of its historic interest, but as a symbol of renewed accord between North and South.

In this building it was that the Alexandria lodge of Masons over which the Father of His Country presided in a worshipful manner, held its first religious ceremony, and there Washington, in his official capacity, attended on similar occasions in the years following. In this building was held one of the earliest, if not the earliest, celebrations of his birthday, that of February 22, 1800.

In the adjoining graveyard lie fellow Minuteman personal friends and contemporaries of the First President. Their last resting places are in many respects sadly neglected. Therein repose the mortal remains of that Dr. James Craik who eased the dying hero's last moments and who later closed the eyes of his devoted wife. There lie Col. Dennis Ramsey, his personal friend; Ret. Dr. James May, who officiated at his funeral; Maj. John Carlyle, Braddock' quartermaster general.

Rehearsal Activities

Henry Russell has been writing some reminiscences of the opera. We quote from his book an anecdote concerning Puccini: "He was by nature a modest and retiring man, but the most talented musicians quickly lost his temper if the singers altered the trend of his music. It happened that Caruso was in one of his most jovial moods. He was rehearsing Rodolfo's famous aria in the first act and took some of the phrases too slowly to please Puccini; who, when the great tenor came to the words: 'Chi son? Chi son?' (Who am I? Who am I?) shouted out in an impatient voice: 'Non un imbecille?' (You are a fool!)"

"Needless to say, every one retired with laughter, in which the composer and tenor heartily joined."—Boston Transcript.

Training for High Officers

Special courses for training advisers of girls and leaders of women have been established in at least twenty-four higher institutions in the United States, as shown by a survey conducted by the National Association of Deans of Women. Courses vary somewhat in the different institutions. In ten institutions, courses in relation to the high school only are available; in six courses in relation to higher educational institutions as well as to high schools are offered. In others the particular field of interest was not stated. The deans of women to the instructor in charge in nearly all the institutions, and replies from answers indicate that credit of from one to six semester hours is granted.

Gates Long-Delayed Trip

Two years ago Mrs. A. D. V. Wadswager, of Liberty, N. Y., paid 60 cents for three chances for the first prize at a church bazaar and won, securing the privilege of a round trip to Europe on a German line. Because of the World war and subsequent Mrs. Wadswager decided she would not take the trip and put her coupon in her desk and eventually forgot about it. In the last year relatives in Germany invited her to visit them. Mrs. Wadswager thought she could not afford it until her daughter reminded her that she had won a free passage. She found the coupon and asked the steamship line if it would still be honored. The company assured her that it would.

A high-contrast, black and white illustration of a man wearing a hat and a suit, smiling and holding a small object in his hand. The style is reminiscent of a woodcut or a high-contrast photograph. The man is shown from the chest up, facing slightly to the left but looking towards the viewer. He has a mustache and is wearing a dark suit jacket over a light-colored shirt and a dark tie. He is holding a small, dark, rounded object in his right hand, which is extended forward. The background is plain white, and the overall image has a grainy, high-contrast quality.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BONFIRE PARTY

The fairies had really been very busy, but Nick and Nancy enjoyed hearing about them as often as possible.

So Nancy said: "Can't you tell us a story about the fairies tonight?"

"Yes, indeed," answered Daddy. "I could tell you really lots of stories about them, for they have been having all sorts of good times these last days."

"But the other evening they had a fine party that was given just for them."

"The Brownies, you know, love lots of excitement and lots going on all the time."

"They're always happy jumping about and enjoying life."

"So they sent out an invitation to the fairies which read:

"The Brownies of Brownland request the pleasure of the company of every one of the Fairies of Fairland to a bonfire party on Thursday evening."

"The Brownies expect no replies, as they expect every fairy will just come."

"The fairies were much excited when they received this invitation."

"The Brownies' parties were always such fun, and a bonfire party—well, that was wonderful!"

"The fairies hadn't thought of bonfires somehow for a long time."

"Now, the Fairy Queen said that they would have to arrive at the Brownies' party in some unusual manner, as that would please the Brownies."

"She suggested that they should engage some hopping toads to pull their chariots to the party."

"The fairies thought that was a splendid idea, and they engaged the hopping toads."

"The hopping toads were much honored at being chosen to take the fairies to the Brownies' party."

"When the great big bonfire was lighted the Brownies entertained the fairies by doing a lot of fancy dances around the bonfire."

"The hopping toads were allowed to stay and watch the bonfire, too."

"It was the most beautiful place, and how the fairies did love seeing it!"

"But of course they were very careful not to go too near the fire."

"After it had died down and only the red embers remained the Brownies sang songs, and the fairies joined in the chorus."

"And then, to the huge amusement of all, what should the hopping toads do but get up and do a special dance of their own!"

"They wanted to tell that they were a part of the party, too."

"It was all the fairies could do to say 'good night' when it came time to leave, for they had had the most glorious time at the Brownies' bonfire party, and they thought the Brownies were the most wonderful party givers that ever lived."

"The Brownies were delighted that the fairies had had such a good time and were so pleased, for they thought that it was all a Brownie could ask for—to please the fairies."

"Half Hour to Go"

Uncle John walked into the sunroom as Richard sat on the floor adjusting his mechanical toys.

"Well, Dick, you're a good boy this morning. I hope," said the uncle, cheerily.

"I don't know, Uncle John," answered the boy, doubtfully. "There's half an hour yet."

Dick looked at the clock and saw that it was just half-past eleven.

The Overboard

"Lena," said little Mollie to her big sister at breakfast, "did you tell daddy?"

"Tell daddy what?"

"Why, you told Mr. Billing last night if he kissed you again you'd tell daddy—and he did it again. I saw him!"—Happy Magazine.

French Chocolates

Every pound of Sherry French Chocolates contains an assortment of forty-seven different kinds of choicest candy. The unusually large number of pieces which constitute a pound is possible because of the smaller, daintier sizes in which the real French candies are made.

The recipes for their making have been skillfully devised and subtly varied from the original group of formulae brought from France by Mr. Louis Sherry.

Beyond quality alone, Sherry's chocolates possess a distinguished and delicate originality of flavors. The fruits, nuts and sweets at the disposal of the creator of confections are blended with the discriminating taste and the inimitable art of the true confiseur Parisien.

It is to gratify the desire of those to whom this final touch of artistry is recognized and appreciated, that Sherry's Chocolates and Bonbons were created.

Amateur Archers Saved
European merchants concerned by wrapping their merchandise in old newspapers or any other paper which can be easily obtained. In the little Rumanian town of Nagyvared (formerly Hungary) this custom led to the discovery of some old documents of historical importance. Students bought fruit from a street vendor and examination of the newspapers showed that the paper came from old Hungarian documents. One document contained an official account of the battle of Magenta (fought in Italy in 1859). Another was an original decree of Franz Joseph, dated 1878, permitting the Protestants of Nagyvared to sing their religious songs when conducting burial services. According to reports, the documents in which the fruit was sold came from the local archives, the Rumanian authorities having sold them for old paper.

Deporters Lined in Case
Deserting the army in September, 1914, two brothers of Froelichstein, France, fled to the lower fastnesses of the higher Alps, and numerous expeditions of gendarmes failed to locate their hiding place. After more than thirteen years the deserters have been arrested. Believing gendarmes were no longer seeking them, the brothers boldly descended to the nearby village of Vullins and attended church service. Told of their appearance, the police rushed into the church and overpowered them. The thirteen years had been spent in a cave.

CROCODILES EAT SMUGGLERS' FOE

Tragedy and Profit Experienced in Rubber Smuggling Near Singapore.

Singapore, Straits Settlements.—Tragedy accompanied rubber smuggling as well as profit. It is not infrequent for officers of the preventive service to meet death in their chase of the smugglers or the smugglers to be killed in their efforts to escape capture.

Recently the captain of a preventive launch, an Englishman, met his death in a most tragic manner. This man was commander of the launch Pilot. While patrolling the waters at the mouth of Sungai Sarung Bua on the west coast of the Malay peninsula he saw a boat with rubber smugglers. He gave chase and the smugglers' boat made upstream. Soon the water was too shallow for the Pilot to follow and the commander with his crew got into a dinghy and followed the smugglers. It was near nightfall, however, and soon, as it does in tropical countries, it became pitch dark.

Killed by Crocodiles.
Having lost track of the smugglers in the dark the commander decided to return to his launch. About one and one-half miles from where it was noticed that the stem of the boat had sunk considerably, having taken in a large quantity of water. A few minutes later the dinghy was suddenly swamped and submerged.

The commander and crew started to swim ashore. The sea at the mouth of the river is infested with crocodiles and at the suggested (river) mouth they can be seen at midday by the hundreds, basking in the tropical sun. The Malay crew got ashore in safety but the Englishman was lost, killed by the crocodiles. But such are the thrills that accompany the preventive service.

It is not generally realized the enormous difficulties under which the commanders, officers and crews of preventive boats are called upon to operate. The cunning of the smuggler, no matter what the contraband may be, is well known and it is no exaggeration to say that the rubber smuggler is one of the most crafty of all. The routes, destinations, positions of the launches are well known to them and many of the commanders will tell the inquirers appalling tales of being hoodwinked by deccors and so forth.

The smugglers operate mainly on the Straits of Malacca and around the mouths of the streams that empty into the straits. At the beginning of nightfall they set out in their sailing vessels, motor launches, etc., with their cargo of contraband rubber for the opposite side of the straits (some twenty-five to fifty miles), which is Dutch territory with free trade in rubber.

Government Has Nine Boats.
There are nine boats that operate in the Straits of Malacca preventive fleet to stop the smuggling across the straits to Dutch territory. These nine boats patrol a coast line of 800 miles and keep vigil 24 hours a day. It is the duty of these boats to check up on all native crafts along the coast to see that they are not carrying rubber without a government permit.

Rubber smuggling is carried on mostly by Chinese and Malays. Native crafts, such as sampans, praus, botoks, longboats, are mostly used in transporting the smuggled goods across the straits, although motor boats are also in use to a small extent. Operating on the sea the smugglers are protected by water and on approach of a preventive launch heavy weights are attached to the rubber and the entire cargo jettisoned to be seen no more. In many cases, however, the weights get untied and the rubber floats, but being dark, for as stated above the smuggler operates chiefly at night, it is not discovered till perhaps a day or two later.

These smugglers are fitted with wireless telephones so that they can be in communication with one another and thus help each other considerably.

These smugglers, as great as they are in number and as persistently as they continue at their illegal trade, seldom show violence when cornered. The preventive fleet boats are all equipped with firearms, but it is rarely that the smugglers show fight. They prefer to escape from the law in a quiet manner. In many cases crafts have been taken ready for departure fully loaded with rubber, but in such instances the men have little or no difficulty in escaping into the country.

position to judge fashions, and to make comparisons between costumes invariably come to the conclusion that women whose clothes are simple are the best dressed. Fussy, ornamental clothes, like gaudy furnishings, become very tiresome. One thinks more quickly of cake than of bread and butter, and it is always the part of wisdom to make one's clothes err, if they must, on the side of simplicity than of elaboration.

Just now one is permitted ruffles and frills, godets, shirring and many things that a year or more ago would have been considered in questionable taste. This is all the more reason why one should exercise restraint in indulging in these things.
Some of the tiered skirts that are made of anywhere from two to five rows of pleating have the effect of

In evening gowns, the flower on the shoulder, or the jeweled ornament at shoulder or waist, becomes the central point of interest. It attracts attention, which is its intention, but if other distractions in the way of ornaments are added here and there, its purpose is defeated.

There is, a certain woman in Paris who is frequently referred to as the best-dressed woman in Europe.
Some women, seeing her for the first time, are astonished at this reputation. She is always quietly and simply dressed. Her success is the result of just that, and due to the fact that she is exquisitely groomed and her costume assembled with good judgment as to color and character. Wearing the right thing in the right place is also largely responsible for her perfectly justified rating.

Origin of "Niagara"

The first mention of this name was in the Jesuit Relation of 1641 in which it was written Ognishakra, which is supposed to be a misprint for Ogniashra. The word is of Iroquois origin and was applied by that people to a place where Youngstown, N. Y., now stands. It was probably originally an Iroquois sentence-word meaning "billarded-bottom-land." There is nothing to the notion that Niagara originally was an Indian word meaning "thundering water."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Black and White in the Spring Style Program

Such a furer for the black-and-white costume as is at this immediate moment! There are ways and means without end of interpreting this popular theme, one of the most effective being the black satin skirt topped with a white satin blouse, this applying either to the two-piece frock or the one-piece. The white satin-blaused frock in the picture is the very essence of smartness. Note the choker collar, the long snug-fitting sleeves, the narrow belt, and especially the black embroidered cone-shaped pocket-cts—all outstanding style details.

How Neckline Problem May Be Easily Solved

The neckline is often a perplexing problem to the woman who makes her own frocks, but with large and varied displays of neckwear to select from she need only finish off the neck of the frock and adjust whatever collar she prefers. If she has several of these the appearance of her dress will be changed and she will not become "so tired of it."

Among the newest offerings is the surplice collar that extends to the hip-line, and the new square collar with the requisite bow at the corner. An exquisite lace collar ties in a bow at the low V and the ends form a rippling jabot. An attractive V collar has a shower of ribbon loops in three colors attached near the shoulder, and the cuffs are similarly adorned. All the mentioned collars have cuffs.

This neckwear combines embroidered batiste and lace, the Valenciennes and Alencon being prominent. These charming collars give a dainty touch to the sheer dresses so much in evidence in advance summer modes, and they give a dressy effect to the plain frock that is going to be such a favorite the coming season.

Chic One-Piece Frock Slender and Straight

The increasing vogue of one-piece frocks centers attention upon certain details that give them a distinctly different aspect from the tubelike dresses of several seasons ago. While they are slender and straight in line they achieve an effect of movement and grace by the use of plaits, sometimes stitched part way down, often pressed into place but left free.

Another detail that does away with any tendency toward monotony is the yoke, which sometimes appears only in the back and again may be seen extending far down on the front of the frock. This pointed effect, when combined with a batiste necktie, gives a new line that is distinctly different.

A frock of this type is ideal and may be worn all through the spring.
The original is made of crepe satin in the new plaidish beige tone. The yoke is tucked just below the shoulders, while the frock itself is laid in small box plaits held in place with a belt.
A bow of the same material is posed on the shoulder.

Black Broadcloth Used for Tailor-Made Coats

Black broadcloth continues to be much used for tailor-made coats.
These may have a long-sleeved bodice and a flared skirt. The flare is concentrated principally on the skirt, and is increased by the use of very thick layers of light fur. The roll collar and the cuffs are also of the fur. Very tailor-made looking coats are also made in satin and in thick crepe materials, generally in black or dark blue. The roll collars, cuffs, and the edge of the coats are often quilted. Sometimes only the edge is quilted in order that the coat be used for the cuffs and collar. On plain coats conspicuous quilted bands are used.

How Are Being Worn

How are being worn more and more in Paris this season. Every lattitude is driving out methods of wearing a woman's belt out of the way, giving by developing a thinwaisted but not ill-fitted coat, or by tucking the belt in over above or below it. The belt remains on the standard, but the necessity for constraining the waist has led to variations.

CHOICE FOODS

The following dishes never lose their prestige, as they are choice and deserve their popularity:

Savarian Cream.

Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one third of a cupful of cold water, dissolve in one fourth cupful of hot cream; add one-half cupful of sugar and the whip from a pint of cream, when the mixture begins to thicken. Cut and fold in the cream without stirring. Flavor with vanilla and mold.

Nesselrode Pudding.

Cook twenty large chestnuts or double the quantity of the small ones in sugar syrup until tender. Cut six of the nuts into small pieces, the rest put through a sieve. Cook two tablespoonfuls each of currants and sultana raisins in the same syrup until tender, then add the same amount of preserved pineapple, cherries, plums or other fruit to the pieces of chestnut and let them cool in the syrup. Cook the beaten yolks of four eggs mixed with three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and a pint of this cream. Cook until the mixture coats the spoon. Add the sifted chestnuts and pass the whole through a fine sieve. Cool and partly freeze, then add a cupful of whipped cream and finish freezing. Add the fruit and nuts drained from the syrup and pack in a mold. Press the cover in place over a piece of wrapping paper and let stand in ice and salt for an hour.
Serve with whipped cream, sweetened with the syrup or fruit juices.

Virginia Spiced Ham.

A two-inch slice of ham is needed for this; rub with a teaspoonful of mustard and two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar. Place in a baking pan, pour over one-half cupful of water with a tablespoonful of vinegar, cover and bake for twenty minutes.

Egg Froyen.

Fry one onion and one cupful of celery in a tablespoonful of butter or oil until tender. Beat five eggs, add with three-fourths of a cupful of chicken cut into dice, add to the vegetables with one tablespoonful of Chinese sauce. Cook until the eggs are set. Make nests of hot boiled rice well seasoned, and serve with the froyen.

Nothing Is Better Than This French Toast For Breakfast

FRENCH TOAST

12 slices white bread cut one-fourth inch thick 2 eggs 1 tablespoon Karo 1 pint milk 1/4 teaspoon salt
Maida

BEAT the eggs, add the milk, Karo and salt. Dip the bread in this, one slice at a time, drain a moment and fry in sufficient Maida to keep from sticking. Turn only once. Serve immediately as the main dish, with broiled bacon, or as a breakfast, luncheon or supper dish with Karo, or fruit syrup.

For luncheon

At company luncheons a salad, of course. But why not make your own lunch a treat, too, by adding Ivanhoe Mayonnaise to any of the "left-overs" in the ice box... This for instance:

1/2 cup diced cold left-over meat 1/2 cup diced celery—3 slices diced Bermuda onion Diced carrots, beans, potatoes, (any cold vegetables you have) Cover with Ivanhoe and enjoy.

For tea

3 tomatoes diced and drained 10 stuffed olives sliced 1 small onion sliced
3 hard boiled eggs sliced Mix with mayonnaise and put between thin slices of white bread.

and for dinner

Which? A light, fruity salad which will do double duty as a dessert, or a crunchy, filling one... Try this for hearty deliciousness:

1 cup cold potato sliced 1 cup cold sliced carrots or green beans
1 small onion sliced
1 large green pepper sliced Mix with Ivanhoe, chill, serve on crisp lettuce.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

A three cornered battle for the lead in one league and a duel for the top in another provided the fans with plenty of drama in their baseball today.

Most interest centered at Pittsburgh where the Pirates and Cardinals—world champions respectively in 1925 and 1926—were battling furiously in a white-hot series. The Cards held the league lead momentarily while the Giants complicated matters by crowding into second place with the Pirates third.

At the same time the race in the American League grew closer as the Yankees lost and the Athletics came within striking distance of the hard-slugging leaders.

It was sheer force of batting power that carried the Cards to the top of the league by an 8 to 3 victory over the Pirates yesterday, although three Pittsburgh errors helped. With two triples for two runs, Frankie Frisch led the batting attack while Lester Bell banged out the only homer of the game. The fielding of the erstwhile "Fordham flash" was perfect with nine chances handled without an error.

Again the pitching of Jesse Haines had the rival batsmen paralyzed and he chalked up his fifth win of the season. Paul Waner was the only Pirate to connect consistently, making three of his team's eight hits.

Throwing off the Brooklyn Indian sign with a mighty effort in the ninth and extra tenth, the Giants took the upgrade again after dropping three straight games to the Robins. Big "Jumbo" Elliott took the showers in the ninth under a storm of hits that brought in three Giant runs and tied the count 3-3. Lindstrom, came home with the winning run on Bentley's single in the extra frame.

The first was the winning inning for the Senators in their game with the Yanks. In that single season that pounded out seven runs and chased Ruether and Shawkey to the club house. After that they didn't score, but they didn't need to as the Yanks could make but four runs despite Lou Gehrig's sixth homer which sent him into a tie with Ruth, his team mate, for circuit slugging honors.

A fine chance for the Athletics to tie the Yanks in the percentages was lost when rain interrupted their game with the Red Sox in the third with the Mackmen leading 7 to 1.

Both Chicago teams found their opponents easy. The Cubs routing the Reds by 13 to 3 with an eight run rally in the third, and the White Sox resuming their interrupted string of victories by wallowing the Tigers 11 to 5. The demon relief pitcher Connolly came to the

School No. 2 Noses Out No. 6 Nine

Wednesday in the grammar school league School No. 2 succeeded in defeating School No. 6 in a close game. The score was 5 to 4. After No. 6 had tied the count in the first of the seventh, No. 2 put across their winning run after two outs had been made. Although Clarke, starting at bat and ahead, of No. 6, fanned nine and allowed No. 2 seven hits to No. 6's eight, his support was poor at the crucial moments. Brant pitched steadily for the winners.

THEN and NOW

This man is ranked among the greatest second basemen of all times. First picture shows Eddie Collins as he looked a short time after Connie Mack found him stealing away from Columbia University to play professional baseball under the name of Sullivan for an up-State team. He was a star in the Athletics' "$100,000 infield" when shipped off to Chicago, where he became manager of the White Sox. After ten years in exile among the gangsters he was considered through. But Connie Mack has faith in him and today, looking as he does in the picture at the right, he is a regular in the Philadelphia lineup again.

PAULINO WILLING TO FIGHT JACK DEMPSEY

New York, May 3 (AP)—Paulino Uscudis is willing to fight Jack Dempsey this summer in a heavy-weight elimination bout for a chance at the title, but he wants $25,000 from Tex Rickard as a guarantee that the ex-champion means business in his talk of a come-back.

After a talk with Rickard, Uscudis agreed to two matches for a recompense of about 20 per cent of the gate receipts. The first would be a bout with Dempsey at the Yankee Stadium July 9 and the second, if he wins, would be against the winner of the fight this month between Maloney and Sharkey.

However, the Spaniard interposed the condition that Rickard should post the $25,000 sum to protect him against possible loss through inactivity if the fight does not materialize. Rickard took time to think it over.

McCarthy Finds Soft Job for Stephenson

The Chicago Cubs' manager, Joe McCarthy, is trying to reform an outfielder who can slug the ball, into a third baseman. Rigger Stephenson is the boy, and his promotion came after a long study by the manager of statistics which proved that the third baseman only had an average of two chances a game. McCarthy's hunch seems to be working out, for the Cubs have been slugging their way through ever since.

WARMING UP BIG ITEM TO HURLER

One of Most Vital Points to Pitcher's Success

One of the performances most vital to a pitcher's success is the stunt of getting warmed up properly just before the start of the game.

Too many pitchers look lightly upon the task. The careless type of pitcher, the warming up is merely a matter of going through a certain routine to limber up his arm. To the student, it is of a more serious nature, as he never fails to go about it systematically and scientifically.

The pitcher who warms up in a haphazard fashion neglects his control entirely. Perhaps, on the last half dozen pitches he tries to get his curve and fast one over the center of the plate. Isn't it reasonable to suppose that if he makes an effort to get every pitch over during the limbering-up period, his control will be much better from the beginning?

There is a certain type of pitcher that finds the first and second innings like stumbling blocks in his path. If he can get by the first two rounds, he can steady down and go the rest. Ball players on the defense would much rather see a clean base hit made off their pitcher than the gift of a base on balls. "Keep ahead of the batter," is the constant advice of major league insiders to wildly inclined pitchers, which is a plan to keep the batter in the hole.

Ty Cobb often requested some of his pitchers to warm up with a batsman standing at the plate, in order to induce better control. The old custom of warming up without a batsman, is all right if the pitcher endeavors to put the ball in spots through the strike area. Otherwise he is touting opportunity to the winds.

The great pitchers, like Johnson, Alexander and Vance, attempt to get the ball over the plate during the warm-up period. About fifteen or twenty minutes should be taken for this important task. In second, of course, with the pitcher's limitations.

If he is a speed-ball pitcher, he should start slowly till his arm is thoroughly loosened, before using high speed. In the case of a slow-ball or medium-speed worker, there is less danger of injuring the arm, and therefore, only the minimum amount of time is necessary in which to prepare himself. Try to get every ball over. Control first; then the other pitching elements will follow rapidly.

Baseball Now Ahead of Baseball at Colleges

Baseball is pushing football hard and has already left football behind in the race among college sports for that honor in the capital and their provinces. Edwin Beach Beach, athletic director of the University of South Carolina.

That it has begun to compete with football as a college sport is due to education of sport fans to the fact that better ball at college can be played than in the professional game. Mr. Beach said.

As for football, Beach thinks it is losing in popularity, at least in college circles. This is due to the lack of interest of college students, which must needs compete with the professional team of football.

"College don't have time to develop our ball players," said the Carolina manager. "They have to live a longer time with the game than the college can give them at it before they reach the top."

K. of C. Nine to Practice Sunday

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock all members of the K. of C. Baseball Club and other aspirants for positions on the club are requested to appear at the Athletic Field, at which time will be held the first practice session for the local club.

The Knights this year will put on the field a team worthy of consideration at all times. In fact, every member of last year's squad will again be in the Knights' uniform. The Kingston Club last season registered wins over such clubs as Oneonta, Port Jervis, Hudson, etc., something no other club in the Hudson valley can boast of. In fact, all of these wins were secured on foreign fields.

Manager Quinn, of the Knights Club, announces the following players seeking berths on his team: Dick Hinkley and Joe Hoffman as catchers.

Tom McGraw, Hank Cragan, Steve Didsig, Bob Siskler, Tommy Davitt for infield jobs.

Bernie Fessier, Stan Colvin, Mat Cahill, Marty Carr for the outfield positions.

In "Big" Jim Volker, Dewey Van Buren and Steve Connolly, the Knights have three of the best pitchers in these parts and great things are again expected from these boys.

Any ball player in the city can try out on the Knights' team and this outfit will be an "All Kingston team."

CONGREGATIONALS WIT OVER FROSTSTORMING
The Congregationalists took a full out of the Frostsburg Wednesday night at the Athletic Field, 4 to 1. The contest was a league game in the organization sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and was played in a stadium which made conditions rather unfavorable. The winners carried their record in the first three innings after which they were held steady by the Frostsburgians who were able to get but one run, which they scored in the fourth inning.

On Friday night the Redwolves will play their second game of the season with the Congregationalists which will make the debut at Frostsburg.

PALESTINE

Palestine, May 3.—All here were shocked to hear of the death of Virgil Harrington. He has been spending the winter with his daughter at Maybrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hitchcock from Maybrook called on Mr. Traver yesterday to see Miss Belle Brakerhoff, who is teaching school at this place.

Miss Belle Reeves is getting along nicely since she had her tooth removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kisher spent last Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mrs. Krum, at Sandoverville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Traver was in Sandoverville last Tuesday. Mr. Joseph Linsen and daughter, Charlotte, called on Mrs. E. Traver yesterday.

Two cases of scarlet fever reported in Sandoverville.

Miss Beatrice Gray spent over the week end with her parents. She returned to Sandoverville on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sney of New York spent a short time at Mr. Marshall Williams' in this place.

Several women have returned to the city.

The newly elected officers of the school are: School Board, Mr. Wm. C. Lee, collector; William Raymond, clerk.

The State Board of Education, under the proposal of the school board, has proposed for Friday afternoon. The students are invited.

Old Form of "Garden"
According to one of the most ancient of customs, it has been practiced in many parts of the world and is mentioned in the Bible in the book of Genesis.

Marvelous Mary Garden Always Careful of Her Precious Voice

writes:

"My teachers, Trabello and Richard Bartelemey, all impressed upon me the solemn warning that I must always treat my throat as a delicate instrument. Yet every artist is under constant strain. Sometimes we get real relaxation in smoking a cigarette. I prefer Lucky Strikes—which both protects the throat and gives real enjoyment."

Mary Garden

When you find your throat is sore, try a pack of Lucky Strike cigarettes. You'll find them just what you need.

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite

Vanzetti Plea Demands Justice

Hacked By Affidavits, Which Bring Into the Open Charges of Prejudice by the Trial Court—Hearing to Sign.

Boston, May 3 (AP).—The fight for freedom which Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti have waged with unrelenting vigor since their conviction for murder six years ago entered today a new phase and Governor Alvan T. Fuller for the first time in the long litigation had before him a personally written plea for liberty backed by six striking affidavits which brought into the open charges of prejudice by the trial court never before published.

The plea was Vanzetti's own. The affidavits were from prominent persons who unanimously testified to allegations of bias, prejudice and impropriety by Judge Webster Thayer, presiding justice, who after being upheld by the supreme court in his refusal of a new trial, recently sentenced both prisoners to death.

Sacco's decision not to join in the petition for clemency was attributed by William G. Thompson and Herbert B. Ehrenmann, defense counsel and Dr. Abraham Myerson, Boston psychiatrist, to a conviction that to do so would be against "his faith."

Vanzetti, however, called for an investigation on behalf of both.
Specially refusing to ask "mercy," his petition again and again demanded only "justice."

The plea of the doomed man and the accompanying affidavits, and statements of counsel added many more pages to the already voluminous literature of the case which has attracted international interest.

Hold Conference For Young People

The Ulster County Sunday School Association, cooperating with the Young People's Division of the State Sunday School Association, is arranging a supper conference for young people between the ages of 14 and 24 to be held at Clintondale Friday evening, May 20. A small charge will be made for the supper.

The conference will convene at 5 p. m. Miss Edith Quick of Albany, Young People's superintendent for the State S. S. Association, will lead the young people in the opening conference. At the same hour Chester Hall of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., will speak to the adult leaders.

The supper will be served in the Community House at 8:30 p. m., daylight saving time. At a supper conference young people will give reports of the State Youth Conference and of the Older Boys Conference recently held in Kingston.

The evening session will begin at 8 o'clock with Miss Quick and Dr.
Clarence Hill Frank as speakers.
This is the first conference of the kind to be held in Ulster county for young people in Sunday schools. Letters have gone to the superintendents of Sunday schools in the south part of the county inviting them to cooperate in sending young people.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY HOLDS ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.
The Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O.
H., Division No. 5, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization at a banquet held in Von Berg's Advance Restaurant on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Sarah Joyce, county regent, was the principal speaker and gave a most interesting talk to the organization. The banquet was held in the large banquet hall which was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Great Days in History Battery C of the Sixth field artillery fired the first shot from an American organization in the World war at 6:06 a. m. October 23, 1917. The first attack by American foot troops was by the Twenty-eighth Infantry, First division, at Cantigny, May 23, 1918.

Franchise Tax Money Received

County Treasurer Joel Brink has received from the state comptroller $19,161.43, being Ulster county's apportionment of franchise tax money. This money has been disbursed by the county treasurer as follows:

Had to Be Satisfied With Seeing the "Lion"

Matthew Arnold, the English poet and essayist, came to the United States and gave 100 lectures, but even the manager of the tour admitted that Arnold's voice was extremely weak and that it was unlikely that any person in the audience ever heard a word of the lectures, a writer in the Kansas City Star asserts. At Arnold's first appearance in Chickering hall, New York city, every seat was sold at a high price. Chaucer M. Dewey introduced the speaker and Arnold stepped forward. He had been well advertised and the audience was breathlessly still with interest. Arnold opened his manuscript and his lips began to move, but not a sound was audible.
The audience craned necks and put hands to ears, but with no result.
Some, fearing deafness had overtaken them, even looked around to see how others were reacting to the silence, but were reassured by the impatience manifested by their neighbors. Gen.
Ulysses S. Grant was among those present. After a few minutes he said to Mrs. Grant, "Well, wife, we have paid to see the British lion; we cannot hear him roar, so let us go home." They left the hall and soon there was a stream of people leaving.

Request Choice

The bread used in Request choice is made of the finest wheat or of winter barley, leavened with a large quantity of brewer's yeast, kneaded and thoroughly baked. The crust is removed after standing a day and the crumb is packed in a mortar and put away in a damp place until it is covered with mold. When it is ripe enough the new cheese is thoroughly rubbed with the moldy bread, and layers of it are put between the layers of curd. After several days pressing the cheese is wrapped in linen and dried and sent to dairy vendors where they are stored, rubbed with salt, scraped, etc., so as to enable the mold to run through them.

No Parents Her Absent

The story goes that several college students were discussing what they would do after they retired. What would they be fit for, was the question.
"Well," said one of them, "I don't know that I'd be fit for anything, but I know what I'd like to do. I'd like to be a superintendent of an orphan asylum, so that I could never get any letters from parents."
"I've a much better ambition," exclaimed another. "I want to be a donor of a postmortem. The student over comes back to visit,"—laughter.

A Shedding woman tells how the lovely Shedding shams are made. She says: "We do not take the shams from the middle outward; we take a long the required length, each quarter by hand, and pick up the shams square to lay upon the other of the sham required; these we take in at each end of the middle, to form the corner of the sham, as we proceed.
Last of all, we make a square for the middle; put a quarter to each side with needle and yarn (wool), much in the same way as you quilt the top of a cushion. Then we sew up the corners, and the sham is finished."
The Last Straw
Jones, our drop in a large leather armchair, suddenly gave from his own window. Life was a curious proposition, he had decided. Curious to read words.
First of all, he reflected, he had been disappointed in love. Later, he had been disappointed in marriage.
And now, to say the least, he had been disappointed in himself. For one, that very afternoon he had married his wife.
